Grammar Focus: Use of “to”

Use “to” to designate a place = I’m going to the store / to the beach / to my job / to work / to GPO. You must specify the place.

Do not use “to” with: home, here, there, up-, down- NOT = I’m going to go to home / to there, etc.

Do not use “to” with a gerund (verb + -ing) NOT = I like to swimming / to eating / to reading, etc. Do not use “to” to designate a gerund. Not = I’m going to go to swimming / to jogging / to shopping, etc.

Use “to” as part of many infinitives = I like to watch / to eat / to go / to dance / to sing, etc. “To” is used to designate a verb, if it’s the reason for the action = We are going to go to Colorado to ski. We are going to go to watch a move. When not a reason, the “to” is not necessary in such sentences = We are going to go (to) shop. We’re gonna go (to) eat now. Exception: “We are going to go to sleep,” which would not normally mean the reason for going, but simply the act of sleeping. Using “to” with infinitives is complex.

See appendix p.111 for further discussion.

   "Well, I take a shower, brush my teeth, and get dressed. After that, I usually have breakfast."

15. What do you usually have for breakfast?
   "I usually have rice and kimchi. Once-in-a-while, I have bacon and eggs. I like scrambled eggs."

16. Explain how articles are used.

17. How do you go to work / school?
   "I walk." / "I take the bus." / "I drive my car."

18. What is the first thing you do at work / school?
   "I usually clock-in / drink a cup of coffee / go to my first class / talk to some friends."

19. What time do you have lunch at work [school]?
   "I have lunch at twelve o’clock / twelve-thirty."

20. What do you usually like to have for lunch?

4 Note: Only say “o’clock” when the time is exactly on the hour: six o’clock, nine o’clock, but never six-thirty o’clock.

5 There are several ways to prepare eggs for breakfast: fried, sunny-side-up, basted, scrambled, over-easy, over-hard, pouched, and soft-boiled or hard-boiled.

6 Grammar Focus: Use of “a” “an” “the”

   “a” is non-specific. Please give me a pencil Any pencil

   “an” is also non-specific, but used before words that sound like they begin with a, e, i, o, u (a vowel) ~ an apple, an elephant, an ice-cream cone. Not an university because the “u” in university sounds like a “y,” as in yellow.

   “The” is specific. Please give me the pencil Only one particular pencil.
   “The” specifies the only one: Please open the door.

   See appendix p.100 for further discussion.

7 Put a time card into a machine that puts the time on it. Many workers must clock-in and later clock-out.

8 Don’t say o’clock unless it’s exactly on the hour, like one-o’clock, two-o’clock, etc.
9 A hobby is not doing such things as watching TV, reading, or listening to music (those are past-times). A hobby is something that is pro-active and is usually considered to be activities that involve collecting things or making things. Sometimes the term is extended to include such things as playing a musical instrument or singing, and less commonly to sports activities. You should not say “What is your hobby?” because many people don’t have a hobby.
10 Infinitive ~ to + verb; used to change a verb into a noun.
11 Gerund ~ verb + -ing; used to change a verb into a noun.

1053. What is choline?

“Choline supplements are often taken as a form of 'smart drug' or nootropic, due to the role that the neurotransmitter acetylcholine plays in various cognition systems within the brain. Choline is a chemical precursor or "building block" needed to produce the neurotransmitter acetylcholine, and research suggests that memory, intelligence and mood are mediated at least in part by acetylcholine metabolism in the brain. The compound's quaternary amine renders it lipid insoluble and theoretically unable to cross the blood-brain barrier. However, despite choline's lipid insolubility, a choline transporter exists that allows transport across the blood-brain barrier. The major delivery form of choline — are egg yolks, soy and cooked beef, chicken, veal and turkey livers” ~ Wikipedia

1054. What is bad and good cholesterol (LDL and HDL)?

"Our body does need cholesterol to make bile salts, hormones and vitamin D. It is mainly produced by our liver. Cholesterol will build up on the artery walls when the level of cholesterol in the blood is too high. There are 2 main types of blood cholesterol: LDL (the "Bad" cholesterol) and HDL (the "Good" cholesterol).

Conversation Questions and Activities to Aid in the Learning of English

Arranged according to tense, topic, and levels of difficulty

By Prof. Mark McDowell, M.A.  Mark’s ESL World ~ http://www.marksesl.com

High amounts of the bad LDL will deposit cholesterol on the artery walls forming plaques. More and more plaques will narrow the arteries lumen and may eventually block blood flow. Therefore LDL is considered the "Bad" cholesterol. Saturated fats and trans fatty acids are the most important factors that raise blood cholesterol, not dietary cholesterol! Monounsaturated fats and polyunsaturated fats found in nuts and fish for instance, can lower the LDL level. In addition, soluble fiber found in fruits, oats, barley and legumes can also lower LDL.

The good HDL, on the other hand, takes excess cholesterol away and carries it back to the liver to be excreted. It can also remove some of the cholesterol already attached to the artery walls. Therefore HDL is considered the "Good" cholesterol as high levels of HDL in the blood can decrease the risk of heart disease. Physical activity can also raise HDL level.” ~ Gloria Tsang, RD

1416. Talk about the Grand Canyon

The Grand Canyon is a colorful steep-sided gorge carved by the Colorado River in the U.S. state of Arizona. It is largely contained within the Grand Canyon National Park — one of the first national parks in the United States. President Theodore Roosevelt was a major proponent of preservation of the Grand Canyon area, and visited on numerous occasions to hunt and enjoy the scenery.

South Rim December 2006
September Storm on the South Rim, 2007

The canyon, created by the Colorado River over a period of 6 million years, is 277 miles (446 km) long, ranges in width from 4 to 18 miles (6.4 to 29 km) and attains a depth of more than a mile (1.6 km). Nearly two billion years of the Earth's history have been exposed as the Colorado River and its tributaries cut their channels through layer after layer of rock while the Colorado Plateau was uplifted.

During prehistory, the area was inhabited by Native Americans who built settlements within the canyon and its many caves. The Pueblo people considered the Grand Canyon ("Ongtupqa" in Hopi language) a holy site and made pilgrimages to it. [citation needed]

The first European known to have viewed the Grand Canyon was García López de Cárdenas from Spain, who arrived in 1540.[1]

The Grand Canyon was largely unexplored until after the U.S. Civil War. In 1869, Major John Wesley Powell, a one-armed Civil War veteran with a thirst for science and adventure, made the first recorded journey through the canyon on the Colorado River. He accomplished this trek with nine men in four small wooden boats, though only six men completed the journey. Powell referred to the sedimentary rock units exposed in the canyon as "leaves in a great story book".

1417. Talk about Alaska?

Alaska (Russian: Аляска) is a state in the United States of America, in the extreme northwest portion of the North American continent. It is the largest U.S. state by area (by a substantial margin), and one of the wealthiest and most racially diverse.

The area that became Alaska was purchased from Russian interests on March 30, 1867. The land went through several administrative changes before becoming an organized 1418. Talk about the American old west.

The American Old West comprises the history, myths, legends, stories, beliefs and cultural meanings that collected around the Western United States in the 19th century. Most often the term refers to the late 19th century, between the American Civil War and the 1890 closing of the frontier. Terms Old West and Wild West refer to life beyond the settled frontier. While this terminology could logically place the setting as far back as the American colonial period, it is usually meant to signify the area from the "Frontier Strip" (i.e., the six U.S. states from North Dakota south to Texas) west to the Pacific Ocean. Sometimes the tier of states just east of the Frontier strip (Minnesota to Louisiana) are also seen as the "Wild West" because of their stance as gateways.

As the setting for numerous works of fiction, the period and region quickly became so popular that it now defines its own genre, the "Western."

Historical revisionism has noted that certain interests (notably cowboys, Indians, businessmen, and the United States government) repeatedly clashed in these conflicts, and a few accounts refer to them as a "western civil war of incorporation" that established United States authority over the region. Violent small scale range wars between settlers, such as the Pleasant Valley War, Lincoln County War, and Johnson County Range War appear to have been common. Accounts of corrupt and criminalised justice systems are also common.

1419. Discuss allergies.

Allergy is a disorder of the immune system that is often called atopy. Allergic reactions occur to environmental substances known as allergens; these reactions are acquired, predictable and rapid. Strictly, allergy is one of four forms of hypersensitivity and is called type I (or immediate) hypersensitivity. It is characterized by excessive activation of certain white blood cells called mast cells and basophils by a type of antibody, known as IgE, resulting in an extreme inflammatory response. Common allergic reactions include eczema, hives, hay fever, asthma, food allergies, and reactions to the venom of stinging insects such as wasps and bees.[1]

Mild allergies like hay fever, are highly prevalent in the human population and cause symptoms such as allergic conjunctivitis and runny nose. Similarly, conditions such as asthma are common, in which allergy plays a major role. In some people, severe allergies to environmental or dietary allergens, or to medication, occur that may result in life-threatening anaphylactic reactions and potentially death.
A variety of tests now exist to diagnose allergic conditions; these include testing the skin for responses to known allergens or analyzing the blood for the presence and levels of allergen-specific IgE. Treatments for allergies include allergen avoidance, use of antihistamines, steroids or other oral medications, immunotherapy to desensitize the response to allergen, and targeted therapy.

1420. Which city do you think is the most interesting Paris, London, or Amsterdam?

Amsterdam is the capital of the Netherlands. The name is a derivative from Amstel dam, pointing to the city's origin: a dam in the river Amstel. The city is known for its historic port, the Rijksmuseum, the red-light district (de Wallen), the liberal coffeeshops, and the canals which have led to Amsterdam being termed the "Venice of the North". During the Dutch Golden Age, Amsterdam was one of the most important ports in the world, with innovative developments in trade, and became the leading centre for finance and diamonds.

The city, founded in the late 12th century as a small fishing village, has grown to become the largest city in the Netherlands with a population of 743,104 inhabitants, spread over at least 172 nationalities.

1421. Discuss Europe

Europe is one of the seven traditional continents of the Earth. Physically and geologically, Europe is the westernmost peninsula of Eurasia, west of Asia. Europe is bounded to the north by the Arctic Ocean, to the west by the Atlantic Ocean, to the south by the Mediterranean Sea, to the southeast by the Caucasus Mountains and the Black Sea and the waterways connecting the Black Sea to the Mediterranean. To the east, Europe is generally divided from Asia by the water divide of the Ural Mountains, the Ural River, and by the Caspian Sea.[1]

Europe is the world's second-smallest continent in terms of area, covering about 10,180,000 square kilometers (3,930,000 sq mi) or 2.0% of the Earth's surface. The only continent smaller than Europe is Australia. Of Europe's 48 countries, Russia is the largest by both area and population, while the Vatican is the smallest. Europe is the third most populous continent after Asia and Africa with a population of 710,000,000 or about 11% of the world's population. However, the term continent can refer to a cultural and political distinction or a physiographic one, leading to various perspectives about Europe's precise borders, area and population.

Europe is the birthplace of Western culture. European nations played a predominant role in global affairs from the 16th century onwards, especially after the beginning of colonization. By the 17th and 18th centuries European nations controlled most of Africa, the Americas, and large portions of Asia. World War I and World War II led to a decline in European dominance in world affairs as the United States and Soviet Union took preeminence. The Cold War between those two superpowers divided Europe along the Iron Curtain. European integration led to the formation of the Council of Europe and the European Union in Western Europe, both of which have been expanding eastward since the fall of the Soviet Union in 1991.

Beer is the world's oldest and most widely consumed alcoholic beverage and the third most popular drink overall after water and tea. It is produced by the brewing and fermentation of starches, mainly derived from cereals — the most common of which is malted barley, although wheat, corn, and rice are also widely used. Most beer is flavored with hops, which add bitterness and act as a natural preservative, though other flavorings such as herbs or fruit may occasionally be included. Alcoholic beverages fermented from non-starch sources such as grape juice (wine) or honey (mead) or distilled after fermentation are not classified as beer.

Some of mankind's earliest known writings refer to the production and distribution of beer: the Code of Hammurabi included laws regulating beer and beer parlors, and The Hymn to Ninkasi, a prayer to the Mesopotamian Goddess of Beer, served as both a prayer and as a method of remembering the recipe for beer in a culture with few literate people.\[5\][6] Today, the brewing industry is a global business, consisting of several dominant multinational companies and many thousands of smaller producers ranging from brewpubs to regional breweries.

The basics of brewing beer are shared across national and cultural boundaries, and are commonly categorized into two main types — the globally popular pale lagers and the regionally distinct ales which are further categorized into other varieties such as pale ale, stout and brown ale. The strength of beer may range from less than 1% abv (alcohol by volume) to over 20% abv in rare cases, though is usually around 4% to 6% abv.

Beer forms part of the culture of various beer drinking nations, and has acquired various social traditions and associations, such as beer festivals and a rich pub culture involving activities such as pub crawling or pub games such as bar billiards.

\(^{327}\) Florence Lawrence 1890 – 1938, is credited with being the first movie star, but she is all but forgotten now.

\(^{328}\) Mary Pickford 1892 -1979, the world’s second movie star. At the age of only 21 she was the highest paid actress in the world. She was also co-founder of the film studio United Artists and one of the original 36 founders of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Known as "America's Sweetheart,"

"Little Mary" and "The girl with the curls," she was one of the first Canadian pioneers in early Hollywood and one of film's greatest pioneers. Her influence in the development of film acting was enormous. Because her international fame was triggered by moving images, she is a watershed figure in the history of modern celebrity. And as one of silent film's most important performers and producers, her contract demands were central to shaping the Hollywood industry. In consideration of her contributions to American cinema, the American Film Institute named Pickford 24th among the greatest female stars of all time.

\(^{329}\) United Artists was founded in 1919 by Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and D.W. Griffith.

Crazy Story
Level: Any Level

This is an activity to help students speak in class and be more creative.

- Ask students to write a word on a piece of paper and tell them not to show anyone. This word should be a verb (or whatever should be reviewed).
- The teacher starts telling a story, then stops and chooses a student.
- That student will continue the story and must use his/her word. This student then chooses the next student to continue the story.
- The last student must end the story.
- After the story is over, the students then try to guess what words each student has written on his/her paper. The student who guesses the most words wins the game.

Describing Appearances & Characteristics of People
Level: Easy to Medium (Low to low intermediate)

Each student is given one sheet of paper. One student sits at the front of a room. He/she describes a person in the class and the rest of the class draws the person being described.

Once the student has finished describing that person, then the class tries to guess the person’s identity. Once the person is known, the drawing should be shared with the class.

Bang Bang
Level: Easy

This can be played using teams or just individuals. For teams, divide the group into two teams. Explain that they are cowboys and they are involved in a duel. One student from each team comes to the front. Get them to pretend to draw their pistols. Say "how do you say..." and a word in their mother tongue. The first child to give the proper translation and shouts "bang" pretending to shoot his opponent is the winner. He remains standing and the other one sits down. Give 1 point for the right answer and 5 extra points if they manage to “kill” 4 opponents in a row. For just individual play, one student can just pick any other student in the class as his dueling partner and the winner picks the next person and so on until there is only one person left in the class.

Naturally, instead of say the word in the students' mother tongue, it would be possible to use a picture or to say a definition or description.
What's the Question?

Level: Any Level

Type of Activity: listening and speaking

Purpose: review question forms

Procedure:
Form two teams (three will work, but two seems to add just the right amount of competitive tension).

Explain the game, with a few examples of answers in search of questions. Ask, “What's the question?” and get students to correctly say the corresponding questions for your answer.

Have two players--one from each team--come to the front. Style it like a game show if you like, with the students standing side-by-side. If you have access to bells or buzzers, it's even more fun.

Next, read an answer to a question and say, 'What's the question?' The fastest player to respond wins a point for her/his team. New contestants come to the front for a new round.

Counting Liar Game

Level: Any Level

This game is similar to the Alphabet Liar game except it deals with numbers and adding the "S" sound at the end of plural nouns, all you need is a deck of cards.

Divide the students into groups of 4 to 6. Deal all the cards from the deck to the students. The player who has the 2 of Spades begins. This player puts down his 2 of spades and any other 2 he has in his hand FACE DOWN in a pile and proceeds to say "one 2" or "two 2'ssss" then next player proceeds to put down his 3, then 4, then 5 etc...

Let's say the player doesn't have the card he is supposed to put down, for example a 3, the player must try to "lie" or fool the other players into thinking he has the card so he can play... if other students have any doubt they shout "liar" if the player was lying he then pick up the pile at the center of the table. If the player who is accused of lying was telling the truth it is the player who accused him who must pick up the pile in the center.

All players MUST put down a card when it is their turn, even if they do not have the required card. The game is over when one of the players has no more cards.

I use this game to help practice the "s" sound at the end of plural nouns cause most students have a tendency to say "there are 2 dog" rather than "there are 2 dogssssss" this game really helps the message get through. For better explanations see the alphabet liar game.
Vacation Cards

Level: Medium to Difficult

For this activity you will need a deck of cards, and an imaginative theme that could be crafted into some sort of story. For example, I choose "send the teacher on a vacation". On the board or overhead projector make a list like the following. (You could ask your student for input.)

- A-exciting
- 2-depressing
- 3-expensive
- 4-heroic
- 5-romantic
- 6-fantastic
- 7-sad
- 8-almost fatal
- 9-cheap
- 10-dramatic
- J-happy
- Q-weird
- K-change one option

Prompt the students a little to get them started; perhaps offer a beginning to the story. They then must continue making an oral story by drawing one card and continuing the story along those lines. For example, if they get 4, then the teacher/protagonist must do something heroic or some kind of heroic event must occur. If the students draw a K (or whatever card you stipulate), then they can change one option. This seems to help keep the momentum in the game. Continue through all cards, with the stipulation that the story must be concluded by the end of the deck. Obviously there is a lot of room for variation here. Your word list and theme could be related to your unit of study.

My students really enjoyed this game; it is most interesting if you personalize it and insert yourself or a student (assuming he/she wouldn’t mind).

Truth or Lie?

Level: Any Level

Based on a group of three (it can be done in pairs, or fours if you write some more questions), each student has a piece of paper with five questions on it (see below) and takes it in turns to ask the person on their left one of their questions. The student answering the question must answer ‘Yes I have.’ regardless of the truth. The student who asked the question can then ask as many further questions as he likes in order to help him decide whether the truth is being told or not. Obviously, sometimes they’ll be telling the truth. The third student can also join in with questions, thereby ‘ganging up’ on student B. Listen how students fabricate stories in an attempt to avoid questions! When the first student feels he’s heard enough he says ‘No further questions’ and writes ‘True’ or ‘False’
Have you ever?
spoken to a famous person?
danced on a table in a public place?
been trapped in a lift?
taken an illegal drug?
sung karaoke?

Have you ever?
appeared on television?
left a bar or restaurant without paying?
written graffiti on a wall?
appeared in a photograph in a newspaper?
chased a criminal?

Have you ever?
done a very dangerous sport?
won a medal or trophy?
missed a flight?
stayed in a five-star hotel?
swum naked in the sea?

A typical exchange might be something like:
- Have you ever swum naked in the sea?
  - Yes I have.
  - Where did you do it?
  - Erm. On holiday in Majorca.
  - Who were you with?
  - Some friends.
  - What were their names?
  - Erm...etc.

Extreme Situations

Level: Medium to Difficult

The point of this activity is to make difficult questions involving choosing a course of action in extreme situations. Usually these situations will involve feelings, prejudices, ethics, etc.

Examples 1:
You are on a deserted island. There is a motor boat and you are the only one who knows how to drive it. It is up to you to decide which people of the following people you are going to take with you in the boat. There is space for only you and 3 more people.

Here they are:

- a prostitute
- a drug addict
- a dying old man
- a doctor convicted of malpractice
- a child pornographer
- a convicted criminal

(Note: You should adjust the list to suit the students in your class. Delete some if you find them offensive. Add others that you think would generate good discussion.)

Example 2:

You find a wallet with $50,000 and the ID of its owner. That money is exactly the amount of money you need to cover the expenses of a delicate operation for your daughter. She needs that operation to survive. What would you do with the money?

And you can create new extreme questions to challenge students to speak.

The Brag Game

Level: Medium

This is a simple game I've made up to practice Present Perfect. You make up about 20-30 sentences in Present Perfect describing various activities one would share to brag. For example: "I've eaten lunch with Al Gore". "Spielberg has asked me to play in his next movie". Students draw a slip of paper with a statement like that, he/she says it aloud to the group and they try to outdo him/her by thinking up a statement which would be more impressive. It might look something like this:

Student1: "I've eaten lunch with Al Gore"
S2: So what? I've eaten lunch with Bill Clinton!"
S3: So what? I've eaten lunch with Al Gore and Bill Clinton" S4: So what? I've eaten Gore and Clinton for lunch"
When they can't come up with something, they just say WOW looking impressed and move on to the next statement.

S1: Spielberg has asked me to play in his new movie.
S2: So what? I've asked Spielberg to play in MY new movie.
S3: WOW
Twenty Questions

Level: Any Level

Using 3X5 file cards I cut and pasted a number of articles from a catalogue. I write on the board questions such as

- Would I find this in the house? (If not assume it is outside)
- Does it weigh more than 10 pounds?
- Does it have wheels?
- Does it have a motor?
- Does it make noise?
- Do you have one?
- Would you like one?
- Can you eat it?
- Can you wear it?
- Is it used in the summer? (if not therefore it is used in winter)

Students work in pairs and may answer only YES or NO and keep track of the number of questions. You can use many more questions perhaps using words that are new or different.

Stop

Level: Medium to Difficult

STEP 1:
On the top of a page each student writes the following: category names: NAME, PLACE, ACTION, ANIMAL, OBJECT, FRUIT/VEGGY and TOTAL.

STEP 2:
Someone starts saying the alphabet, A, B, C...etc. then someone else interrupts the alphabet-teller shouting: STOP!!!

STEP 3:
Let us suppose the alphabet-teller was interrupted on letter "K". All the participants in the game would try to find words that start with "K" to fill out the category chart. For example one may write: Kansas for "PLACE", koala for "ANIMAL", key for "OBJECT", kiwi for "FRUIT" and so on.

STEP 4:
The participant that finishes filling all categories first shouts STOP!! And all the others should stop writing.

STEP 5:
The participants compare their words. The words repeated by two players are worth 50 points. The words repeated by three or more are worth 25. The words that are not repeated by anyone are worth 100 points. The empty categories are "0". Each player adds up all the points he got for the letter in turn and put the result in the "TOTAL" At the end of the game all the subtotals are added and the one who gets the highest score is the winner.

Create Your Own Similes

Level: Easy to Medium
1. Present a few similes and the sample sentences to the class. Write the sentences with underline.
   Ex. - The baby's skin was as white as snow.
   - Finishing up the project by himself, the boy was as - proud as a peacock.

2. Prepare flashcards with one adjective on each. Students pick out one card in turn and create similes by using the adjective on the card. Emphasize that unique ideas are welcome. Instructor shouldn't be judgmental, and accept any similes as long as they are logical.
   Ex. - as big as Mt. Fuji / as soft as a cotton candy
   Students compare their ideas and discuss which ones are interesting or funny.

3. If time allows play a song which includes a simile, for example the jazz song "As deep as the ocean" and discuss the usage and effectiveness of the simile.

This activity fosters students’ creativity and encourages their active participation in the lesson.

Word Grab with Songs

Level: Any Level

This is a wonderful activity if you think your class needs waking up a little. Choose a song that the students have or have not heard before. Choose 10-15 pieces of vocabulary from the song and write them on separate pieces of paper. With lower level groups you may want to pronounce the words with the students first. Stick each word to the board with putty (blue tack). Put the students into 2 teams each one in a line before the board. Play the song. When the 2 students at the front of their line hear a word in the song that is on the board they must race each other to grab that word from the board (this can get quite violent!). They then go to the back of the line and it's up to the next pair. The team with the most words wins.

I don't usually stop the tape so don't choose words that come one after the other. If you want to make it more difficult you can put red herrings up. You can usually play the song a couple of times until they get all the words.

Add a Word

Level: Any Level

Rationale: Students practice grammar and syntax.

Materials: None.

Levels: All levels, though better for more advanced students, because the game is more fun at a quick pace.

Method: One student begins a sentence by saying only one word. A second student must say a word which continues the sentence. A third must continue, and so on, until someone says a word that does not fit syntactically or grammatically. If the sentence comes to a Logical end without error, the next student may say "period" and begin a new sentence with a new word.

The teacher may suggest a topic to get things started. What the students say may also be recorded and played back, so the class can discuss the error that stopped the sentence.

Example:

Teacher: The topic is 'pets'.
First student: "My . . ."
Second student: " . . . dog"
Third student: " . . . has . . ."
Fourth student: " . . . spots . . ."
Fifth student: " . . . brown . . ."

The sentence would stop here. The teacher would ask the students why, hoping someone explains that the adjective 'brown' normally comes before and not after the noun 'spots'.

Time Indicators

Level: Any Level

Rationale: Students practice using different subject pronouns, verb tenses, and the time words and phrases that go with them. They must also be able to recognize different forms of the same verb, especially irregular verbs.

Materials: None.

Levels: All. Beginners can play using only four verb tenses (present, past, future, and present progressive). More advanced can play using all the tenses.

Method: One student says a time word or phrase (e.g. next year, a few days ago). A second student must complete a sentence using the proper verb tense. That student then says a different time word or phrase. A third student uses it to form a sentence, but may not use the same verb or subject pronoun the second student used.

Verb tenses may be repeated if necessary, but verbs may not, and subject pronouns may be repeated only after they have all been used once.

The game can continue as long as the teacher wants, though two runs through all the subject pronouns is an appropriate length. The teacher may write the full sentences on the board, but should at least keep track of which subject pronouns and verbs have been used.

Example:

First student: "At the moment . . ."
Second student: ". . . I am sitting in a classroom."
who am i?

level: any level

you can use this with any subject. write the names of famous people (mixed nationalities) on small pieces of paper. tape a name on the forehead of each student. the individual student should not see his or her paper, but the others should. then, like with 20 questions, only yes or no questions should be asked. perhaps start with yourself and ask "am i a man?" if the answer is yes, i can ask again, but if the answer is no, it's the next person's turn. play until everyone has guessed who he or she is! this can be played with nationalities, countries, household objects, anything and it's a gas, especially for adult students!!

"tic tac toe" or "noughts and crosses"

level: any level

this is a good game for a revision or for a reader's discussion. divide the class into two groups. draw a grid of nine squares on the board and write a number on each square (from 1 to 9). prepare nine questions and set one question for each number. the groups call out the numbers and if they answer the question correctly, they get the point. the goal of the game is to make a line (horizontal, vertical or diagonal).

Questions
Auxiliary verbs: are, is, do, does, have, has, was, were, did.

Present Simple

Used for: 1) repeated actions 2) Things that are permanent or ongoing for the time-being 3) A state of being ~

“We go out every weekend.”
“I work at the post office.”
“My sister is very kind.”

Present Continuous

Used for: 1) Things that are happening right now. 2) Ongoing situations, but may not be occurring right now. 3) To describe change. 4) Future plans that are very definite; ones that have already been arraigned ~

“Don’t bother me; I’m talking on the phone.”
“Yes, grandmother, I’m going to college.”
“The economy is getting better.”
“I’m going to Thailand tomorrow; I already have the plane tickets.”

Comparing Past and Present
I used to _____, but now I ________.

Past Simple
Used for acts completed in the past. Acts can be of any length. Verbs can take regular (-ed) and irregular forms (spelling change, or no change at all) ~

“I caught a cold”
“I dropped the plate.”
“I used to play tennis when I was in college.”
“I was in the Army for five years.”

Past Continuous

Used for: 1) Continuous acts in the past. 2) To describe the background of a situation that occurred in the past. 3) To describe a situation where one is interrupted. 4) To describe past actions that were not completed ~

“I was living in Los Angeles then.”
“The wind was blowing and the stars were shining.”
"I was just driving down the street officer, when out of nowhere a car came and smashed into me."
"I was attending college."

Comparatives and Superlatives
Adjectives that end in -er; the -est

Comparisons
Not / isn't as .... as .....
..... is more ...... than .....
..... is less ....... than .....

Present Perfect

Grammar

Most of the grammar difficulty for free talk students is in the area of word order. This section on grammar has been included to show how individual words evolve into complete sentences.

Parts of Speech

Nouns: Names persons, places, things, or abstract ideas

| Henry  | Canada | fork | love |

Adjectives: Describes nouns or pronouns.

| blue, big, dark, . . . (a, an, & the are special adjectives called articles) |

Pronouns: Takes the place of pronouns.

| I, He, she, it, whatever, they, them, . . . |

Verbs: Two types -- Tells either what a noun does (action verb) or its state of being (linking verb). Verbs are conjugated into five classes: The first three are the principle forms.

Adverbs: Describes or answers a question about verbs, adverbs, and adjectives. They express time, manner, place, or degree:

| very, well, now, quickly See adverb chart – next page |

Prepositions: Gives the relationship (spatial or temporal (time)) between two nouns:

| in, by, to, on, since, . . . |

Connecting words are prepositions and conjunctions.

Conjunctions: Joins words, phrases, or clauses:

| and, but, because, nor, . . . |

Interjections: Expresses emotion:

| wow! | Gee! | Oh my God! |
The Three Part Sentence
Subject – Verb – Complement

A sentence is often divided into subject & predicate. The predicate can also be further divided into verb & complement, giving a sentence three basic parts. The complement is considered to be anything after the verb that completes the meaning of the sentence. There are six basic types of complements: none, direct object, indirect object, predicate nominative, predicate adjective, and object complement.

*Adverbs of frequency and others in this column go between the auxiliary verb and the main verb, or after a “be” verb.

“I would often go fishing when I was a child.”

“He is usually on time.”

When there is an object, adverbs of manner follow the object, not the verb.

“She sang to me softly, every night.”

Example sentences:

As a matter of fact, I usually go to the one downtown, every evening.
There is a really beautiful house up on the hill.
As for me, I’d really rather just eat here.
Tenses in English

1 Present (speaks of actions that repeat themselves, a state of being, or an ongoing circumstance)

   I eat breakfast every day; She is kind; I'm in college.

2 Past (speaks of an event that has ended in the past)

   I ate breakfast this morning.

3 Future (speaks of a future event)

   I’m going to eat. I will meet you tomorrow at 7 o’clock.

==================================================================================================

4 Present Perfect (speaks of an event that may or may not continue to the present in a time period that has not ended.)

   I have eaten. I have always eaten breakfast.

5 Past Perfect (speaks of two related past events, one of which occurred before the other)

   I had already eaten before lunch. (so now I’m not hungry)

6 Future Perfect (speaks of two future events, one occurs by the time the other one occurs, which is often a point in time)

   I will have eaten by noon.
7 Present Continuous (speaks of an ongoing action in the present, is often used for definitely arranged future events). Continuous tenses usually require a time frame in which the action occurs.

    I am eating [now]; I'm going to New York tomorrow.

8 Past Continuous (speaks of an ongoing action in the past)

    I was eating when you called.

9 Future Continuous (speaks of an ongoing action in the future)

    I will be eating if you come now. I'm going to be eating at that time.

10 Present Perfect Continuous (speaks of a time period that has not ended and a continuous action that may or may not have ended).

    It's been raining. (recently, but perhaps not now); I've been studying for two hours.

11 Past Perfect Continuous (relates a past ongoing action with another event in the past)

    I had been eating before he arrived.

12 Future Perfect Continuous (relates a future ongoing action with a future time or event)

    I will have been eating for ten minutes by the time you get here.

</tr>
<tr>
<td>(Pronounce “an” like the “an” in ‘and’ — not “an”) When speaking quickly “an” can be minimize to sound somewhat like un or en.</td>
<td>The — Uniqueness the moon / the sun / the sky / the Earth.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>When to use “an” Use “an” when the following word has the sound of: a, e, i, o, u. Note: The sound is what is important.</td>
<td>The — The only one nearby “I’m going to the zoo.” “I’m going to the library.” “I’m going to the beach.” “I’m going to fishing at the pond.”</td>

</table>

Using “the” with proper nouns. Most proper nouns do not use “the,” but many businesses do as well as a few countries, and some geological features. Native speakers develop a “feeling” when to use “the” with proper nouns. It is difficult to come up with definite rules for all situations, but the following should cover most situations:

| Cities ~ Do not use “the” ~ I’m going to Seoul, not the Seoul. No city name has “the” in front of it. |
| Countries ~ Only countries that have a plural sound such as those that end in “s” or use the word “unitled” in their name use “the”: the United States, the Philippines, the United Kingdom, the United Arab Emirate. “The Congo” is an exception, but “the” is sometimes not used with Congo anymore. We don’t say the Korea, or the Japan, etc. |
| Plurals in general ~ All plural proper nouns are preceded by “the,” even people’s names: the Joneses, the Smiths. |
| Stores ~ If the name sounds like something tangible (something that can be seen or touched) then use “the.”: “I’m going to the Galleria / the Broadway.” If the name is just contrived or named after a person, then do not use “the”: “I’m going to Lotte / Saisy / Costco / Carrefour / E-Mart / Sears / Macy’s / JC Penney / Woolworth.” Naturally if the name is followed by “store” or “department store” then you add the “the”: “The Sears Department Store.” |
| Hotels ~ With hotels a person’s name is usually preceded with “the” as well as names that sound like a physical thing: “Let’s stay at the Ritz / the Hilton / the Star / the Flamingo” But, names like Star 66 / Circus Circus / Bally’s, have no “the.” |
| Rivers and Beaches ~ Rivers use “the,” but beaches do not: The Han River vs. Hyundai Beach. |
| Islands ~ Do not use “the” for islands unless they are plural: the Hawaiian islands. |
| Other issues ~ If the proper noun is used like an adjective, there is no “the” ~ Carnegie Hall or Rockefeller Center. However, in the following the use of an actual adjective with the proper noun, such as “opera” or “cultural,” requires the use of “the”: The Sydney Opera House or The Saejeong Cultural Center. |
| Mountains ~ Use “the” for mountain ranges, but not for single mountains: the Rocky Mountains vs. Mt. St. Helens. |
| Planets ~ “The” is only used with Earth. Note: “Earth” is capitalized only when spoken of as one of the nine planets. |

Grammar Rules for ESL students

1) Pluralize words when you are talking about them in general:
   Not: “I like dog,” or “I like a dog.” But: “I like dogs”
   Not: “I like to see movies and read a book.” But: “I like to see movies and read books. You can emphasis a particular type: “I like to read a good book.”

2) “I like to sing a song” or “I like to read a book” – should be corrected to just be “I like to sing,” and “I like to read.” We can assume you sing songs and read books.

3) Don’t put “was” before another complete verb:
   Not: “I was ran yesterday.” But: “I ran yesterday.” Please never say someone “… was died.” That sounds especially strange.

4) Present Particiles (verb + -ing) need a “be” verb in front of them.

5) Use “too” with positive statements and “neither” with negatives statements: “I like Kimchi,” “I do too”; “I don’t like Kimchi,” “Me neither / Neither do I.”

7) Don’t use “to” with past tense verbs, only present tense.
   Not: “I like to ran.” But: “I like to run.”

8) Don’t use “a” or “the” before meal names: Not: “I ate a breakfast this morning,” But: “I ate breakfast this morning.”

9) Don’t repeat the subject in the form of a pronoun directly after the subject. Not: “Americans are very fat.” But: “Americans are very fat.”

10) Don’t use “a,” “an,” or “the” to mean generalizations except in scholarly or very formal situations.
   Not “I like to read a book.” But: “I like to read books.”
   Not “The cat is a beautiful animal.” But: “Cats are beautiful animals.”
   Scholarly: Used before a singular noun indicating that the noun is generic: The wolf is an endangered species. A cat is a feline.

11) Going somewhere specific requires the preposition “to” except for “home.” Do not use “to” for places using “up” or “down.” Do not use “to” with non-specific words like “abroad” or “overseas. Do not use “to” with pronouns.
   Not: “I’m going Gwangju.” But: “I’m going to Gwangju.”
   Not: “I’m going home.” But: “I’m going home.”
   Not: “I’m going to downtown.” But: “I’m going downtown.”
   Not: “I’m going to there.” But: “I’m going there.”

12) Don’t incorrectly place verbs in the “subject” or “complement” of the sentence.
   Not: “I like sing.” But: “I like to sing.” Or, “I like singing.” (Turn the verb into a noun by using “to” in front of it, or by adding “-ing” -- not all verbs can use both methods.) Note: some verbs can produce a secondary verb (infinitive without “to”), such as help, make, let, and verbs of perception (see below). >> “My mother made me eat the hamburger.” “I watched him fall.”

13) Don’t leave out the “do” part of “don’t.”  “Not” is not a helping verb.
   Not: “I not have any money.”  But: > “I don’t have any money.”
14) Put a “determiner” in front of most nouns (a, an, the, my, his, her, some, much, your).
   Not: “My father is truck driver.”  But: > “My father is a truck driver.”
15) Don’t put “very” before verbs.
   Not: “I very like you.”  But: > “I like you very much.”
16) Don’t use two “determiners”
   Not: “I very having a my birthday party.”  But: > “I’m having my birthday party.”
17) When making a negative statement begin with a negative word: Not:
   “Everybody doesn’t want to go.”  But: “Nobody wants to go.”
18) Don’t use adverbs in place of adjectives.
   Not: “He is very kindly.”  But: > “He is very kind.”  (Saying, “The kindly old man…” is ok)

Instructions: Choose the correct answer.

Q1 - She played _____.
- beautiful
- beautifully
- beautifully

Q2 - The TV’s far too _____.
- loud
- loudly
- Either could be used here.

Q3 - She speaks so very _____.
- quick
- quickly

Q4 - She’s a ____ learner.
- quick
- quickly

Q9 - He should pass the test _____.
- easy
- easily
- easilly

Q10 - He’s really lazy and _____ tries.
- hard
- hardly
- Either could be used here.

Q11 - The newspapers were very ____ of the scheme.
- critical
- critically

Q12 - He’s ____ ill.
- critical
- critically
19) Use “going to,” not “will” for planned future events.
   Not: “I will go to Seoul tomorrow.” But: > “I’m going to go to Seoul tomorrow.”

20) Use “would” when talking about future imaginary things.
   Not: “I like to have a big house in the country.” But: > “I would like to have a big house in the country.”

21) Use “have to” not “should” for things that are mandatory. “Should” means: it’s just a good idea, but you don’t have to do it.
   Not: “I should pick up my mother at the airport.” But: > “I have to pick up my mother at the airport.” Soon say “must;” “must” is stronger than “have to” and is used in “emphatic” (forceful) statements or by people in authority.

22) Don’t say “wide” when you mean big. Say “big” when you mean big and “wide” when you mean wide; i.e., “The board is 10 feet long and 8 inches wide.”

23) “I envy you” ~ is not natural English. Say “I’m so jealous” or “That really makes me jealous.”

24) Don’t say “until” when you mean “by” ~ “By” means no later than. “Until” means a continuous action that happens up to a specific time, but not after. “I’ll finish studying by 9:00.” “I’ll study until 9:00.”
Instructions: “By” and “until” are two words that are often confused by learners. Students should take the following test:

Q1 - I'll keep phoning ____ you pay me.
☐ by ☐ until

Q2 - It's open from 7am ____ 5pm.
☐ by ☐ until

Q3 - It must be finished ____ Friday afternoon.

25) Using “until” to mean having done something to the present ~ It is common for ESL students to say things such as: “I’ve studied music until now.” When one understands “until” to mean to do something for a period of time and then stop, the sentence does not convey the desired meaning. It implies that the person is no longer studying music. Saying “up to [till] now” is better, but most native speakers would rephrase the entire statement and say “I’ve been studying music for X years,” or “I’ve been studying since I was X years old.”

26) Try not to always use “so” to replace “very,” “a lot,” or “really.” Instead of saying “The Wonder Girls are so popular,” try saying “The Wonder Girls are really popular.” “So” has a conjunctive feeling and tends to imply more information is coming, thus can give many sentences a feeling of not being finished. Using “a lot” is very common: “I like it a lot”; however “a lot” is not considered to be a real word by grammarians and is not usually found in dictionaries.

27) Use the proper preposition ~ Preposition usage can be confusing; you must study them

Take this preposition quiz (answers are on the next page)

1. You can sit ______ the table. Dinner is ready.
2. What's wrong ______ John today? He looks so sad.
3. I got married ______ her last year.
4. What do you usually do ______ the weekends?
5. Today is the 15th ______ January.
6. This birthday present is ______ your sister.
7. There are many stories ______ vampires.
8. There are four ______ us in the family.
9. She goes ______ the movies every Saturday.
10. My parents are ______ vacation in Europe.
11. I rode ______ the car / taxi / van.
12. I rode ______ the bus / plane / train / motorcycle.
13. Let's have a look ______ your collection of coins.
15. I often go visit our grandma in the evening.
16. My birthday is in June.
17. My birthday is on June 21st.
18. I went to school at Harvard University.
19. Please put this at the corner.
20. I am in my last year of college.
28) Don’t say “the next day” when you meant “tomorrow.”
   Not: “I’ll see you the next day.” But;> “I’ll see you tomorrow.”

29) Multiple singular nouns following a “be” verb don’t make it plural. It remains singular:
   Not: “There are my brother and sister.” But;> “There is my brother and sister.”

30) Not all compound subjects form a plural verb. We would not say “Here are my passport and registration card,” but instead would say “Here is my passport and registration card.” We would not say “There are my pencil and paper,” but instead would say “There is my pencil and paper.” We would not say “Thunder and lightening were frightening to me,” but instead would say “Thunder and lightening was frightening to me.” Such compound subjects are so closely related in the context spoken of that they become “conjoined” into a single idea or subject.

31) The plural of person is usually “people.” Only use “persons” when you are emphasizing each person of the group. Ex. “The persons responsible for committing the crime will be apprehended.”

32) “In these days” ~ Should be just “These day,” “Now-a-days,” or “recently.”

33) “Almost” means “nearly” and must be followed by a quantity, most commonly “all.” Don’t say, “Almost my friends like fashionable clothes”; say “Almost all my friends like fashionable clothes.” Using specific numbers like “Almost 90 people came to the party,” is grammatical, but could sound a little strange depending in context (If the person is certain the amount was not over 90 people, then he would probable the know the exact number and just say the exact number.) If one is estimating, one would say “About 90 people came ….” Saying “Nearly [or almost] half” would probably be acceptable in most situations. Note: Only use “Almost all …,” with positive statement. For negative statements say “Almost nobody or no one ….”

34) “Most of” refers to a subset of a group. Don’t say “Most of Koreans like dogs,” say “Most Koreans like dogs.” (leave out the “of”) “Most of ..” is used to limit the group: “However, most of the Koreans I know prefer cats.”

35) later ~ We don’t say “See you two weeks later” or “Come back two weeks later.” You should say “See you in two weeks” or “…two weeks from now…” “Come back in two weeks.” “Later” is a comparative adjective and requires the comparing of two time periods: “Mary came five minutes later than Joan.” The expression “I’ll see you later” is alright. Also do not say “Come back in two weeks later.” Saying “after” is not usually used with a time period in second person (referring to the person being spoken to), but could probably sound acceptable as long as the word after comes before the time phrase, not after. Not: “Came two days after,” but instead say “Come back after two days.”

36) Don’t put “the” in front of city names. Just say “I’m going to Gwangju,” not “I’m going to the Kwangju.”

37) Everyone, everybody ~ Any word or phrase with “every” is always singular: “Everyone likes good food.”
By Prof. Mark McDowell, M.A. Mark’s ESL World ~ http://www.marksesl.com

38) “fun” vs. “funny” ~ Something is fun if it’s enjoyable in a happy exciting way. Something is “funny” if it makes us laugh. The amusement park ride was fun, not funny. The man was funny (he made us laugh).

39) “bored” vs. “boring” ~ A person gets bored from watching or doing something that’s boring. We don’t say “I’m boring,” we say “I’m bored.”

40) “said like that” ~ We don’t say “He said like that.” We just say “He said that”. – no “like.

41) Don’t use “more” with comparative adjectives.
   Not: I like it more better than that one. But: I like it better than that one.

42) “recommend” ~ Don’t say “I recommend to you …” We recommend information, so the word recommend is followed by “that”: “I recommend that you lose weight.” However “that” is understood even when not said, so it is considered optional: “I recommend you lose weight.”

43) play vs. go ~ We “play” most sports that are games, but just do others. We play tennis, basketball, soccer, badminton, pool, etc. We don’t play swimming, running, skiing, or skating. With golf, we use both terms, “I’m going to play golf,” or “Let’s go golfing.” Exception: We don’t play bowling; we just go bowling (though it’s clearly a game).

44) noon and midnight ~ Noon is PM, midnight is AM.

45) diligent ~ This word is very rarely used. Try saying, “He is hard working.” or “He works hard.”

46) red color ~ When speaking of a color, don’t use the word “color”; just say the name of the color: “The car is red,” not “The car is red color.”

47) “drunk” vs. “drunken” ~ Native speakers never use the word “drunken”: “I’m drunk,” “We got drunk,” “The drunk man …” Always use “drunk.”

48) clever ~ Don’t say “clever” when you mean “smart.” These words are not the same. “Clever” means thinking in an original way, having a good idea, or thinking in an imaginative way. If a person is intelligent then just say “smart.” If he did something original that the average person would not have thought of, then say “clever.”

49) “I need to lose my weight.” “My weight” is all of your weight. Just say; “I need to lose weight / some weight.”

50) “… before” “I saw him five years before.” Say: “I saw him five years ago.”

51) “Close from here” This should be “Close to here” compare: “…far from here.” Also, don’t use “to” with the word “near.” Say “It’s near the post office,” not “It’s near to the post office.”

52) A, an, or one, is singular. Never say “an hours,” “one hours,” “one years,” etc.

53) Saying “It’s good for your health” is not as natural as saying “It’s healthy.”

54) “Eat medicine” ~ We take medicine or vitamins; we don’t eat them.

55) I’m a good cooker, should be “I’m a good cook”

56) We don’t say “I got married with her.” We say “I got married to her.”

57) “Food” is not usually countable. Don’t say “I liked all the foods.” Say “I liked all the food.”

58) Distinguish between eating and drinking. We drink liquids, we don’t eat liquids.
Conversation Questions and Activities to Aid in the Learning of English

Arranged according to tense, topic, and levels of difficulty

By Prof. Mark McDowell, M.A.  Mark’s ESL World ~ http://www.marksesl.com

59) Until now means something continued up to now, but then changed. You shouldn’t say “I’ve studied math until now” because that sounds like you no longer study math. Saying “Up to [till] now,” sounds better, but most native speakers would rephrase the entire sentence and say something like “I’ve studied math for X years” or “I’ve studied math since ______.”

60) Respectively ~ This word is used to clarify the relationships of two sets of things. For instance, “The glass, plate, and fork cost two-dollars, four-dollars and one-dollar respectively,” (the two sets of items are listed in the same respective order). This is confusing to many ESL students, which can be seen in the following quote taken from a book published by Korean Herald: “Three of them crashed in the World Trade Center towers and the Pentagon respectively.” “Respectively” in the foregoing sentence makes no sense because there is no one-to-one correspondence between planes and buildings.

61) Especially I ~ Adverbs of focus should be placed in directly in front of the main verb of the sentence or the exact word they modify. We do not say, “Especially I like chocolate ice-cream.” Instead say: “I especially like chocolate ice-cream.”

Konglish Problems

62) black eyes ~ Nobody has “black eyes.” Say “My eyes are brown (or dark-brown).

63) oil ~ This is often used to mean gasoline in Korea. Motor oil goes directly in the engine. Gasoline or “gas” is what we put into our fuel tanks.

64) Are you ok? ~ Don’t say this when you mean “Is that alright with you?” Say: “Is that ok?” “Are you ok?” means: Are you hurt?, or Have you been injured

65) department ~ This is Konglish for department store. When talking to a native speaker of English, you must include the word “store.”

66) night ~ This is Konglish for nightclub. You should say “nightclub.”

67) cup ~ This is Konglish for glass (A cup has a handle or is made of paper or plastic): “A glass of Coke.”

68) toast ~ This is Konglish for a toasted sandwich. You should just say “sandwich” and “please toast the bread.”

69) hip ~ This is Konglish for “butt.” We have two hips – where the bones are.

70) toilet ~ bathroom – restroom (Say “restroom” for public buildings and “bathroom” for homes.) Saying “toilet” sounds a little impolite 71) handle ~ This is Konglish for steering wheel.

72) cunning ~ Should be “cheating.” Cunning means a planned, skillful, and subtle, deceptiveness: “The bank robbers were cunning.”

73) dessert ~ is not coffee, cider, tea, or cola. It’s only: ice cream, cake, pie, banana splits, or something else that is sweet and something you eat after having dinner.

74) car number ~ Konglish for License plate number.

75) jelly ~ Konglish for Jell-o. Jelly is made from fruit juice and is what we spread on bread or toast. Jam is similar, but is made from boiled fruit and has pieces of the actually fruit in it. The dessert is called by its brand name: Jell-o, not jelly.

76) hand phone ~ Not a bad name actually, but Americans say cell phone or mobile phone.
hobby ~ A hobby is NOT just anything you do in your spare time. “hobby” = n. pl. hobbies
An activity or interest pursued outside one’s regular occupation and engaged in primarily for pleasure.” So, it is something that is pursued and is somewhat like an occupation. It’s not going to movies, listening to music, watching TV, or reading books. Hobbies are things that are pro-active, not passive. Hobbies involve work! Things like collecting stamps or coins, making models, doing ceramics, wood working, and photography are hobbies. Playing a musical instrument or involvement in sports are usually not considered true hobbies, but rather are skills.

“I have a promise / plan.” ~ This is Konglish for “I have an appointment” (usually for a doctor or dentist, etc.), “I have something to do,” or “I already have plans.” “Do you have any plans?”

sign pen ~ Konglish for marker having an “event.” ~ This is Konglish for having a “special” or having a “sale.”

sharp ~ is Konglish for “mechanical pencil.”

back-mirror ~ Konglish for “rear-view-mirror.”

potatoes (at fast food restaurants) ~ Potatoes that are cut and deep fried are called “French fries” or just “fries,” not potatoes: “I would like a cheese burger and fries, please.”

coating ~ Koreans say “coating” for lamination. The word “coating” would be used for liquids that dry and cover or protect; solids bonded together are laminated.

hot dog ~ In Korea the hotdogs that come on a stick are called “hotdogs,” but western people call them “corndogs” because they are covered with corn batter. A hot dog refers to a hot dog (the meat) in a hot dog bun to westerners.
Infinitives

Infinitives are the base form of any verb. Therefore, infinitives ARE verbs, but can be used as nouns, adjectives, and adverbs when placed in other parts of the sentence than the normal structural verb position. Infinitives often require the particle or marker “to”, but not always.

Knowing how to use infinitives and when to use or not to use “to” with an infinitive can be difficult for students of ESL, but here are some guidelines:

1. Used as a noun

To sleep is the only thing on my mind. (With the “to” the sentence more directly focuses on sleep as an objectively spoken of subject, rather than the act of sleeping).

Sleep is the only thing on my mind. (Sleep here is a true noun, not an infinitive, yet more closely refers to the act of sleeping.)

To sleep / sleep functions as a noun because it is the subject of the sentence.

No matter how interesting the horror movie was, Mary turned her head and refused to look.

To look functions as a noun because it is the direct object for the verb refused, and requires “to”.

2. Used as an adjective requires “to”.

Wherever John goes, he always brings a magazine to read.

To read functions as an adjective because it modifies magazine and requires “to”.

Infinitives
3 Used as an adverb requires “to”.

William left the apartment to throw the trash into the dumpster.

To throw functions as an adverb because it explains why William left the apartment, and requires “to”.

My brother and I went to Colorado to ski.

To ski functions as an adverb because it explains why my brother and I went to Colorado, and requires “to”.

4 Used with certain main verbs does not require “to”.

An infinitive does not take the marker “to” when certain main verbs are used. These verbs are: see, hear, feel, watch, notice, make, help, and let.

The pattern is as follows:

SPECIAL VERB + DIRECT OBJECT + INFINITIVE (− TO)

My mother made me eat the spinach.

Eat serves as a verb because it is the verb of the object me.
When an infinitive is used as an act the subject will do at a later time, the “to” is usually considered superfluous; that is, not necessary, unless emphasis is desired. Some statements take the “to” better than others.

My friend and I are going to go (to) eat. (“To” is not required, but may be desirable in some situations where one wants to emphasize what one is going to do; “Hey mom, we’re supposed to go to eat now!”)

Note: In statements like, I’m going to run, requires “to”, but here the “to” is part of the verb phrase “am going to” and is not a marker for the infinitive run.

Here are examples where “to” would usually sound awkward and needless:

We are going to go (to) run.

I’m going to go (to) swim.

I’m going to go (to) rest now.

Exception: We are going to go to sleep now ~ would be quite common because to sleep is an expression of its own. Though, it is also possible to simply say: We are going to go sleep now. To sleep would place more emphasis on the act of falling asleep, while sleep would place more emphasis on the act of actually sleeping.

Conversation Questions and Activities to Aid in the Learning of English
Arranged according to tense, topic, and levels of difficulty
By Prof. Mark McDowell, M.A. Mark’s ESL World ~ http://www.marksesl.com

Many –ed words are pronounced like -t with no sound for the t, only air, such words ofter have sh or ch before the ed:
finished – say finisht
washed – say washt
wished – say wisht
watched -- say watcht

Don’t put “y” sounds after sh and ch words church (not churchy) ash (not ashy) beach (not beachy) trash (not trashy)
English (not Englishy) fish (not fishy)

Common problem areas

Don’t put “a” sounds after words
We must(a) act(a) now.

Don’t put thinking sounds after words
(ah) Well, I (ah) think (ah) that (ah) . . .

Confused terms drunken vs. drunk (“drunken” is not commonly used, just say “drunk”) loan / lend vs. borrow (loan is to give, borrow is to receive)
I have a promise (s/b I have an appointment, or I’ve already make plans. Note: plans is pluralized.)
I recommend to you . . . (s/b I recommend that you, or I recommend you . . .)

Overused Expressions:
So (use: very or really) Use “so” when you are going to give an explanation, compare two things, or making an exclamation.
In my case (use: As for me, or as far as I’m concerned, or just don’t say anything)
These days (use: lately, recently, or now-a-days)
Try Using Tongue Twisters to help improve clarity

Larry really wrote a letter to the zoo.

A big black bug bit a big black bear, and made the big black bear bleed blood.

Freshly fried flying fish.

Famous tongue twisters:

Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers.
Did Peter Piper pick a peck of pickled peppers?
If Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers, where's the peck of pickled peppers Peter Piper picked?

She sells seashells by the seashore.
The shells she sells are surely seashells.
So if she sells shells on the seashore,
I'm sure she sells seashore shells.

How much wood would a woodchuck chuck
if a woodchuck could chuck wood?
He would chuck; he would, as much as he could;
and chuck as much wood as a woodchuck would
if a woodchuck could chuck wood.
